The student governments this year have continued their usual activities as in the past and have attempted to improve the quality of their systems. The men have handled their problems through the Student Council and led such activities as Commons inquiries, the mayoralty campaign, and men's smokers. The women have worked through the Women's Student Government and have completed such projects as sponsoring coffees and improving the game room of the Women's Union.

In order to facilitate activities concerning both men and women on campus, a co-ordinating committee has been established with representatives from both the Council and Stu-G. This operating committee is concerned with activities in which both sides of the campus participate.

To complete the system, the Bates Conference Committee has continued to be active as a group interested in discussing and establishing general college policies. Members of both Student Government and the Student Council have co-operated with Dr. Phillips to analyze all-campus problems.

All these governmental groups are aimed at the ideal of campus democracy, and seek to represent all students through a truly representative system.

Ivy Day Ode

By NANCY PROUTY

One moment —

And through the window flowed the evening glow
Showing with dark intensity the face
Over a red volume bending low.
Marooning shadows crept with unseen grace
And silence lay around the puzzling brow.

One moment —

Callow leaves and good wet earth smelled green.
The long rays stretched their fingers to her hair
And dappled it. Faint pathways never seen
Before, yet known, leading to anywhere —
And nowhere — held her wide young eyes in dream.

One moment —

A cloud in darkening billows swelled its pain
And lost its million tears in the ocean's moan.
The green things flourish, die, and sprout again,
Leaf upon sturdy stem in jagged stone
Or endless field. Ever growing — reaching —

CLASS HISTORY

September, 1944 . . . and green freshmen blended nicely with autumn's fiery leaves . . . The campus was echoing to the tread of cadenced marching and Navy color squads replaced Bob MacDonald at the job of raising and lowering the flag . . . President Phillips was inaugurated on November 14, 1944, in a blaze of academic honors and distinguished speakers . . . The then-new Bates Conference Committee went into action with the first co-ed smoker in co-operation with the Navy . . . Then as now, clarion calls were made to improve campus social life . . . Entertainment rules were liberalized and the Class of 1948 has benefited since—more or less . . . The Robinson Players presented "A Murder Has Been Arranged" and Professor LeMasters was the willing villain . . . remember? . . . Jane Webber was the Carnival Queen in February, 1945, and the campus governments were thoroughly worked over editorially . . . Mr. Sampson, now acting chaplain for all the veterans snarled in Uncle's red tape became an administrative assistant . . . Spring elections saw Dick Woodcock elected Class President; Joan Thompson, Vice-President; Lorrie Lorenz, Secretary and Elly Mills, Treasurer . . . Come May the Robinson Players drenched the stage with more blood: "Heaven Can Wait" with Floyd Smiley among those waiting . . . In June, the sadly-decimated Class of 1945 graduated; most of its men still scattered around the world . . . save for Skip Mulhearn whose tired Flying Fortress didn't make it back from Germany one afternoon.

September, 1945, saw the return of many Bates' veterans—both from pre-war and V-12 days. Formal uniforms were missing now, but blue, green, and olive-drab shirts and trousers were all over the place . . . worn by suddenly and happily civilian students . . . Slowly, Bates shook down to peace-time life and the complement of males present for dates rose . . . Four plays were scheduled by Miss Schaeffer for production: "Soldier's Wife," "As You Like It," "Pygmalion," and "Disraeli." First peace-time formal was sponsored by our Class on December 8th . . . New Dorm was re-named Smith Hall to the confusion of Bates' men who'd been away . . . their confusion wasn't lessened by the sight of girls pouring out of once-masculine precincts . . . masculine yells gave way to feminine cries and shower-room Eddys no longer craved shipment back to Suez in quavering baritones . . . Ruthie Stillman was Queen of a Carnival that lived up to its theme: Winter Wonderland . . . "As You Like It" was a post-Carnival hit . . . Steam built up by years of service was let off with a blockbusting Mayoralty Campaign that saw John Lincoln Dyer elected after riding up the chapel steps trampling on tradition as he rode . . . Bates' veterans tricked Doc Fisher into chapel—and presented him with a watch and a scroll as thanks for his news-crammed letters sent to Bates' men in service . . . Doc kept Bates' men loyal to Bates . . . and the Baseball Team took the State Title.

October 5th saw us off to a late start in our first full peace-time year . . . Ed Dunn and Norm Temple got a rousing late send-off to England and Scotland as they headed north and east to resume Bates international debating . . . Ducky Pond's Bobcats started that famous season which left them undefeated State Champs by beating Mass. State, Trinity, and Tufts, by mid-October. Northeastern was swept aside and Bowdoin, Maine, and Colby went down to defeat that left Bates the State Champions for the first time since 1930 . . . "Once In A Lifetime" sparkled in the Little Theater and we were suddenly alerted to hear that the Bobcats were to play the University of Toledo's Rockets in the inaugural Glass Bowl game . . . we lost 21-12, but the battered Rockets and the City of Toledo knew they'd earned their victory the hard way . . . Art Ploener, Norm Card, and Floyd Smiley took the center of the stage literally to star in "A Bell For Adano" . . . Rudy Moulton was Carnival Queen of the 1947 Gay Nineties Revue, livened by Jawn Gaffney and his singing barkeepers . . . The basketball team followed in the football team's footsteps to take the State Basketball Title . . . The first post-1941 Science Exhibit was held in Carnegie; John Gaffney winces yet when he's asked about the atom bomb . . . so does the United Nations . . . For the Red Cross, a hand-picked faculty team played a varsity basketball team wearing boxing gloves . . . Johnny Fortunato's loose, if not promiscuous, interpretations of the so-called rules imperilled even himself . . . The married vets and their wives tickled our ribs with "Me 'n The Missus" . . . and the men's constitution was changed amid tumult and shouting . . . Jeanne Mather and Traf Mendall turned in memorable performances in "Twelfth Night."

We began our last last year pale and wan from three years of hard studying—hard, ain't it hard—while autumn and the football team came on together . . . The Bobcats' luck was mixed: Tufts, Bowdoin, Northeastern, and the University (ahem) of Massachusetts lost to Bates, while Trinity, Maine, and Colby came back to beat the 'Cats . . . Men were scarce as honest lawyers when forest fires brought the worst disaster to Maine since it divorced Massachusetts . . . and fire crews went and came in smoke-stained shifts . . . The one-day Thanksgiving holiday was lightened by the Outing Club's top-hole trip to the Turner Center Grange Hall, led by Bert Knight . . . "Joan of Lorraine" saw seniors Bud McMurray, Viv Sikora, Floyd Smiley, Jeanne Mather, and Wayne Sweatt in the cast, with Monty Montgomery a heart-stirring Joan . . . Jeanne Mather was crowned Queen of a very successful Pep-permint Carnival which was approved for once by the weather-man . . . The food question, long cankering in the stomachs and minds of Bates men, came to a head with radicals calling for the fall of the House of Ulcer . . . a committee — democracy's safety-valve — made a report of conditions and took a poll . . . conditions improved somewhat although the more destructive suggestions of polled students were overlooked for legal reasons . . . even if the corpus delicti is a cook, it's still murder, we were told . . . "Arms And The Man" gleamed with Shavian satire on the stage in Hathorn.

College has been a way of life for four years, it will be a way of thought for many more . . . Bates has been a source of friendship, a resolver and a dissolver of some problems, a source of others. We shall not see again the crowds at the football games in the thin October sun or watch the campus whiten with the snow . . . we shall not see the crazy-quilt patterns of the campus lights reflected in the spring rain's puddles . . . the youngness and the freshness of college, we will not meet again . . . With diplomas and with hopes, we'll leave Bates — glad now, but will we not look back someday as did Prince Karl to "Golden Days"?

Sampsonville

About eighteen months ago, in the cold, hard winter of 1946-47, Sampsonville sprang into being from the wood, dirt and rocks of Maine and the hearts of a grateful nation. Unique in the history of "Batesina Academia," it was part of the answer to the returning veterans' thirst for education.

Some of us were around, last year, when they laid the cornerstone and "we sweated it out" until the keys were handed out and the furniture moved in—about three months after the due-date—and we wore the new look off the apartments. Even some of the faculty moved in with us, and we all started calling the place "home."

It wasn't long after the grand opening that we quit being a group and became a community The Ball 'n Chain Club sprang up; . . . the moniker, "Sampsonville," caught on in deference to our "father confessor"; . . . our own organ, the Sampsonville Sun, was born; . . . and we moved into the social life of the campus with Me 'n the Missus. We stuck our collective political nose into last year's mayoralty campaign and rode to victory with the winner; . . . we "opened house" one Sunday for visitors; . . . and during the season's W. S. S. F. drive we cashed in on the culinary skill of our distaff side with a cake-sale.

Of course, while all this was going on, a continuous process of successful achievement, our best, was taking place—we were having babies. On the assumption that if two heads are better than one, the more the merrier, we've been adding new members to our aggregation steadily. And so far that sort of reasoning has paid off—our QPR is well above the danger mark. We even got some of those students from outside the state of Matrimony into the act. They filled in as baby-sitters at different times and added a new kind of formula to their growing educations.

In Sampsonville's second semester, Bates came through and granted to all the wives in our midst the privilege of holding honorary Student Activity cards for admission to all sport shindigs. And with that many a guy managed to stretch that ninety-a-month just a little bit farther.

The newness and novelty is gone now, and the face of Sampsonville is turned toward its fourth semester. Some of us are "checking out," but the waiting list for apartments grows bigger and bigger. The Class of '48 now leaves those garbage-can blues, the brimming icepans, and Ball 'n Chain suppers to those who follow behind. We know that, from now on, along with the names of Parker, Roger Bill, Hathorn, Chase and the others that mean "Alma Mater," Bardwell, Garcelon and Russell will be conspicuous by their presence.

Robinson Players

One of the outstanding organizations on campus for many years, has been the Robinson Players. Working under the direction of Miss Schaeffer, students who are interested soon find themselves caught in the grasp of the "theatre" and here many of them spend what seems the major part of their college years putting their interest, talent and elbow grease into producing "the best play this campus has ever seen."

The years of Our Lord '47 and '48 found the Robinson Players no less star-studded than in previous years. Perhaps even more so because the Heelers were merged to become a single organization—The Robinson Players. As usual the first week of classes in the fall found the doors of the Little Theatre swinging in and out—and before it seemed possible that the year had begun, the theatre was transformed to Medieval France and "Joan of Lorraine" was in our midst—rehearsals for our actors—sets and lights for our crews, too many beards for make-up, swords and armor to trouble the costumers—these were just a few of the problems confronting Miss Schaeffer and the cast.

No sooner was Joan's armor put away when in quite a different mood the stage screamed with red-pink-blue-green and Bavarian flower designs. Under the master-builders Smiley, McMurray and Company, the stage was set to match Shaw's mood of "Arms and the Man." The lights burned late in the theatre and the hammers sounded through the night and three elaborate sets were nailed in place to become the fashionable Petkof's home. Rehearsals again—and then the second production was over. With the Commencement performance of "Arms and the Man" the activities of the Robinson Players was brought to a close.

Debating . . . .

This year the Debate Council continued its swing back into its pre-war stride with a crowded and successful program. With Prof. Brooks Quimby absent from the campus during the first semester, Norman Temple, member of last year's international debating squad that toured the British Isles, coached the squad successfully through the Vermont Invitational Tourney. Highlight of the first semester's activities was the non-decision exchange of debates with Canada's University of New Brunswick.

1948 produced two championship squads for Bates. Bates won the first state of Maine collegiate championship by defeating Colby, Bowdoin, and the University of Maine. Later two members of that squad, Ed Glanz and Bill Stringfellow, swept the Northeastern United States Tourney held at Wesleyan University and thus earned the right to represent the region at the National Debate Tournament held at the U. S. Military Academy in May. Penn State, Holy Cross, Dickinson Law, and Boston University fell to the undefeated Bates squad at the Northeast Tourney. Decision debating was resumed on campus this year when Bates defeated Harvard University 3-0, and a new debate series was inaugurated when Bates met and defeated the West Point Cadet squad which had won the Midwestern Championship. Dozens of non-decision debates were also held this year, and again Bates Freshmen made an outstanding record at the Dartmouth Freshmen Tourney.

Bates Outing Club

The Bates Outing Club this year carried out a successful program of its regular activities — mountain hikes, ski trips, the Carnival, etc. — as well as controlling a series of fire-fighting expeditions, during the state-wide emergency, in which approximately 300 Bates men participated. As usual, the highlight of the year's activities was the Winter Carnival, with Maralyn Davis and Dick Woodcock as co-directors. The three-day event was marked by a dual ski meet, with Colby; an intramural hockey game; the Peppermint Ice Review, enjoyed by freezing fans; the countless Chase Hall get-togethers; and as a fitting climax, the Carnival Hop. Hikes on Tumbledown Mountain, ski trips to the Bridgeton Slope, canoe trips on Dead River, house-parties at Thorncrag, and a Memorial Day clambake rounded out the year's activities.

The club this year lost the services of "Doc" Sawyer, who resigned his position as faculty adviser and treasurer. Since 1923, he has been a major force in the development of BOC, second oldest and largest of the nation's outing clubs. After being duped into a Spring chapel talk, "Doc" was presented a token of appreciation — a fly rod and reel — by the Outing Club Council.

The Bates Outing Club continues to promote interest in outdoor activities, and to help the student to enjoy to the fullest that phase of his college life.

Serving as the main organ of dissemination of campus news, The Bates Student, makes its appearance weekly during the academic term.

Led this year by Harry Jobrack, Jean Harrington, and James Towle, the staff attempts to give the student body a newspaper through which they can not only learn what is going to happen and what has happened in the campus community, but also a paper that contains timely and interesting feature stories. The Student follows an editorial policy of striving to offer genuinely constructive criticisms and suggestions which are honest reflections of student opinion and which will benefit not only the students themselves but everyone connected with the college.

In spite of the handicap of publication only once a week, The Student has, nevertheless, been first with many of the year's highlights. In its columns was to be found the first official announcement of the return to Toledo's Glass Bowl of Ducky Pond's Bobcats. The results of various elections and contests held throughout the year were usually available in the college newspaper ahead of any other source. The successful climax of this policy came at Winter Carnival. Within one half hour of the Queen's coronation, The Student was being distributed with the complete story and pictures.

Bates College Musical Clubs

The Football Band played for rallies, home, and series games. George Rowan and Robert Oakes were co-managers with the latter doing a good job as student director. With an eye to next fall, the band held spring practice sessions, and joined the chorus and orchestra to present the spring campus concert.

The College Choir this year, besides its regular chapel services, represented the college at a Palm Sunday Union service held at the Chapel; presented a concert for the West Auburn Community Church; and took part in a sacred music concert given by the Maine Federation of Music Clubs.

The MacFarlane Club presented varied programs at its monthly meetings. Members also performed in Chapel, the Lewiston-Auburn area, and helped in the planning and presentation of the major concerts by the musical clubs.

The Orphic Society and Choral Society performed at Christmas Vespers, the Pop Concert, and Annual Spring Concert. For the former organization concertmaster Carleton Davis and manager Leonard Wilmot contributed much to a successful season. The Choral Society of seventy-five mixed voices had an active year. In addition to the three major concerts, members of the society performed for Chapel programs and a radio broadcast. President Robert C. Smith and Vice-President Dorothy Stetson, as well as accompanist Everett Brenner and Pop Concert chairman Joyce Baldwin, are to be commended for their services.

The Politics Club, our special interest group primarily for social science majors, has this year conducted an unusually large number of well-attended lecture-discussion meetings. The Club's fifty members, together with faculty adviser Mr. Covell and guest speakers, have discussed such currently significant topics as Russian relations, Marxisms, inflation, and German recovery. Beyond the campus, the Club has helped to develop closer relations between the four Maine colleges' political clubs and has played an active role in New England's International Relations Club organization.

The Bates Student Federalists, advocates of the creation of a Federal World Government, have completed their first full year as a recognized Bates club. An organization of thirty members, the Federalists have so far concentrated on publishing a small mimeographed newspaper, besides embarking upon a discussion program under the tutelage of Mr. LeMaster, Mr. Covell, and Mr. Fairfield.

The growth of these clubs is a token of a rising political awareness at Bates.

Football

1947 Fall practice found four lettermen gone the graduation route, and halfback Walker Heap laid out for the season with a broken leg. To add a last bit of trouble, Wally Leahey cracked his foot and didn't get on the active list until State Series time. The lineup found Dick Scott and Bill Cunnane at ends. At the tackle spots, John Thomas and Lindy Blanchard grabbed starting positions; Hod Record and Don Conners rounded out the guard picture, with Al Angelosante commanding the pivot spot. Norm Parent was moved back to blocking back, joining Al Howlett and Arthur Blanchard. Another converted center, Jesse Castanias, took over as fullback. That was the picture when the varsity boarded a Union Square bus and headed for the University of Massachusetts, on September 27.

As was pretty much expected, we took the contest 14-6, sparked by Arty Blanchard's great running game. Nick Valoras also figured in the play and gave us an idea of his value as top backfield reserve and passer. In the line only Bill Perham, Tessecini, Thompson, and Len Hawkins could be figured on as reserves. This was to show up as Bates' most glaring weakness; a lack of overall depth, and it was to cost us the next game.

Trinity came up with a powerful squad and forged ahead 12-0. At this point, Blanchard went the length of the field twice on almost successive line bucks for two tallies and a line score; but reserves told the story, and the Bates boys, pretty well tired, succumbed to the powerful second half rush, losing 33-12. Still licking its wounds, the Bobcat snapped back and clawed Tufts 12-7. This time we out-gained the Jumbos and commanded the play. It was a story of plenty of Blanchard and a good supporting cast. Nick Valoras came into his own against Northeastern and tallied twice to give us a 12-0 win. Ducy Pond cleaned the bench and Bates looked more like the '46 club again.

Due to the forest fire delay, State Series play started on November first, against Bowdoin. A shot in the arm was Wally Leahey, stepping into a tackle spot, helping out line depth, and bolstering the forward wall. Early in the action, a Bowdoin ball carrier was smeared behind his goal line by the right side of the line, giving us a 2-0 advantage. Bowdoin scored, taking the lead 7-2 and looked pretty safe until Blanchard crashed 65 yards off his own right tackle to score and the game ended 9-7 with fans going wild on two Polar Bear field goal attempts.

On November 8, an overconfident Bates club played Colby listlessly 'til the end of the fourth quarter, falling behind 12-0; then waking up, they tallied one touchdown on a long Blanchard run but got squeezed out by the clock to lose 12-7.

The season reached its head against Maine, here on November 15. The Black Bear took the lead 13-0 in the first half, but Ducky shot the boys a little inspiration and they came back to tie the game at 13-13 early in the third quarter. We scored on a Blanchard to Howlett lateral and a Castanius off-tackle play. Maine finally tallied a six-pointer and rolled ahead and away with the State Series 19-13. Bill Cunningham was up to report the play and applauded especially Art Blanchard and Jesse Castanius, along with the general spirit of the teams. We can only join with him and echo his praise for our backs, linemen, coaches, and their spirit that pulled an injury-riddled, graduation-scarred team through a tough season, with honors.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

The '47-'48 hoop year was primarily a transition period. The season before, Coach Petro had ready-made stars; this year some had graduated. The bulk of the team came up from the Jayvees and meshed into a good ball club, tallying an average of 65 points per game, and taking 10 of their 16 games.

At center, Bill Simpson was a fixture and Russ Burns was moved back to guard, pacing with last year's starter, Dick Scott. At the forward berth, fast Ace Bailey and Johnny Jenkins, up from the Jayvees, had the nod at game time. Remember that club and how they nearly upset highly regarded Maine, losing narrowly 62-59? Then in quick order, the local boys took Bowdoin, 66-59, and Colby, 68-58. This finished the first round of series play and we held second place. Down to Boston and a 63-61 decision over Northeastern. Bill Simpson tallied 29 points that night and hit twelve times from the foul line for a new record. Christmas came, with a Trinity loss 72-54.

January 9 and 14 saw us lose to Massachusetts University and Tufts. This was the last non-series setback of the year. But by now the season lineup had changed. Captain Russ Burns and Ace Bailey were forwards, Waldo Tibbets had moved into a guard spot. Up from the second string Jayvees had come an indispensable, indefatigable, 40 minute rebound powerhouse, Bob Strong. This club began to jell and took Colby 62-52, but couldn't overcome the old football jinx and lost to Maine 56-64. Coming into his own, Simpson and Co. took Bowdoin 80-53, and then, in the season's thriller, stopped Colby in overtime play 57-56. What a night that was! Remember how Jenkins broke the game up and Bailey made his foul? Assumption too was measured and chopped 64-50 after a great second half onslaught. Once again the Black Bear of

Maine was too much and scored the last win of the season over Ed Petro's boys 78-67. Boston College came up, highly touted, and star-studded, only to see Wistful Willie Simpson steal the show as the Hoopcats took the contest going away 65-54. The State Series ended with Bates in second place after a 59-48 nod over Bowdoin. For the successful finale, the boys traveled up to Canada and won with ease over the University of New Brunswick, 66-45, ending the campaign in good style.

It was a great season. Remember the stand-outs? Russ Burns' jump shots and Ace Bailey popping from the corners . . . Scotty against B. C. and Waldo driving hard for a basket . . . Remember Big Bill Simpson, shooting fouls and in the bucket, rolling up 311 points and ending up the eighth highest small college scorer in the country? John "Give us a smile" Fortunato and the other refs, good, bad, and indifferent . . . Coach Indian Petro wiping up the floor at Colby and bringing home his team victorious . . . Remember those big nights, big wins, and the losses, tough to take? All that goes to make great college basketball.

The Garnet diamond squad, in lining up for the 1948 season, witnessed several shifts in key spots. Art Blanchard moved over from the mound to third; Bob Adair, the whip-armed fielder moved in from center to hold down the initial sack; Bud Porter helped to replace injured Norm Parent back of the bat; Bill Cunnane alternated between catcher and right field; and Nick Valoras came up from the Junior Varsity to provide extra strength around the hot corner. Don Sutherland, key to the pitching situation, continued to be the most effecive member of the staff. The second base area saw various combinations working at short and second. John Jenkins and Doug Kay alternated at short stop, and John Houston and Al Howlett worked the other side of the keystone sack. Cunnane, Hod Record, Porter, and Stone patrolled the outer defense for the nine.

Poor weather hampered the squad at the opening of the season and several practice sessions were forced into the cage, and the opening exhibition against Maine Extension was frozen out. Injuries to key men and late practice seriously hampered the Bobcat's efforts in 1948, particularly when the schedule required several games on successive days, as on the Southern swing in April.

INTRA-MURAL MANAGERS

A. Dunham R Vail R. Wade A. Kovler E. Noel

The Bates Intramural sports program for 1947-48 enjoyed its most successful and progressive year to date. The avowed purpose of the organization is to encourage athletic competition among those men not representing the school in intercollegiate sports. The three-hundred men participating this year represent a substantial increase over the previous year's activity. Not content with this achievement, the management hopes to interest an even higher number of competitors in the forthcoming school year.

Blessed with fair weather throughout, the touch football schedule proceeded without a hitch, with John Bertram annexing the crown in the final game. The basketball season ended in a three-way tie, necessitating an intricate play-off system from which Roger Bill emerged victorious. A new tradition was instituted with the presentation of a trophy which each year's basketball winners will retain as long as they are champions. An extensive softball program was played during the spring.

A great deal of the credit for the success of the year's program should go to Abe Kovler, the senior manager. He was, in turn, ably assisted by his underlings Ned Noel, Bob Wade, and Al Dunham. Student Council representative, Bob Vail, together with Abe and Mr. Moore, formed an executive council which passed on the major decisions of the organization.
